

Emergency Prep for Pets

This playbook outlines the steps to prepare for emergency situations with a focus on ensuring the safety and well-being of pets. It includes the creation of a pet first-aid kit and the formulation of an evacuation plan that accounts for pets.

Step 1: Kit Assembly

Assemble a pet first-aid kit with essential medical supplies, food, water, and care items. Include items such as bandages, antiseptic, a thermometer, a pet carrier, and at least a week's supply of your pet's regular food and any medications.

Step 2: Information Gathering

Collect and compile important documents related to your pets. This includes vaccination records, medical history, a recent photograph, your veterinarian's contact information, and any registration details.

Step 3: Evacuation Plan

Create an evacuation plan that includes your pets. Make sure to identify pet-friendly accommodations in advance, establish a buddy system with someone who can evacuate your pets if you're unable to, and practice evacuation drills with your pets.

Step 4: ID Tags

Ensure your pets have proper identification tags with their name and your contact information. Microchipping is also recommended for a permanent form of identification.

Step 5: Emergency Contacts

Prepare a list of emergency contacts, which includes local animal shelters, pet-friendly hotels, and friends or relatives who can provide temporary care for your pets in case of displacement.

General Notes

Accessibility

Keep your pet first-aid kit and emergency supplies in an accessible place so that you can evacuate quickly if needed.

Regular Updates

Review and update your pet's documentation, first-aid kit, and emergency plan regularly to ensure the information and materials are current.
